Stacy,

There is currently no master plan. We have negotiated an agreement with ODOT and a private consultant to develop a master plan for the entire 12+ mile trail, and including the Yamhill to Carlton segment. My understanding is the details have finally been worked out, and we have been sent a draft, but that is about all I know at this point.

Good morning Todd,

You had mentioned that the trail will need to be adopted into the Yamhelas master plan – I should have asked during our call, but what master plan is that?
